**All new PhD students must enroll in "University Teaching I and University Teaching II" courses, except for the self-paid students who may be exempted from taking the courses, subject to the approval of the Dean of the student's academic unit.**

The University-wide courses are compulsory for all PhD students, unless exemption is granted by the Senate GSC under exceptional circumstances. These courses should normally be completed before the Qualifying Examinations. Students who fail a course on the first attempt should re-take the course or an alternate course as determined by the Faculty GSC or the GRS. A student who is unable to pass a retaken course (or the designated alternate course) on a second attempt may be required to discontinue his or her studies.
